

About

Get Active Devon is a website developed by Public Health Devon. The website was designed in response to consultation with primary health care professionals who requested a central web resource which could be used to increase levels of physical activity among their patients. The website is based on the consultation setting, and uses information on the patient's health, circumstances and preferences to generate a tailor-made list of physical activity opportunities available in the patient's local area.